Transit Map (Schematic) for an imaginary Metro Railway Network for the city of Bengaluru (Bangalore), Karnataka, India. The network consists of 16 main lines, 20 branch lines, 611 stations, 750 km of route track and 1150 km of line track. This imaginary network is aimed at solving the crisis of severe vehicular congestion and emissions currently experienced in the city, as well as to provide it with efficient, fast and reliable urban transit options.
